Light a match - we all know how to do but how do we put a fire out again?
13 Jun 17:40	5	Activities : Fire Experiment	Candles Matches Jug Bicarb of soda Vinegar	First, light some candles. Explain that fire needs three things: 1. spark (match), 2. fuel (wick and wax) and 3. oxygen. To put out a fire, you need to remove one of these. In a jug, put some bicarb and add vinegar. The result will be carbon dioxide gas. Use the jug to "pour" the gas over the flames and watch the candles be extinguished.	Akela
